Frequently Asked Questions—and Answers

What is the MAJPS Program?
The Master of Arts in Jewish Professional Studies (MAJPS) program is a new model of learning and training for Jewish professionals. It offers core courses in the areas of classical and contemporary Jewish knowledge that are most relevant to Jewish communal life today, combined with essential professional training in nonprofit management.

Are there special focus areas for those who work in various fields of the nonprofit sector?
Yes. The MAJPS program enables students, under professional guidance, to carve out a portion of the overall degree to serve their specific needs. The Individualization segment of the program allows students to experience rich, flexible, and personalized learning, with opportunities to achieve individual personal and professional growth.

Where is Spertus Institute located?
Spertus is conveniently located at 610 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago, between Harrison & Balbo.

Is Spertus Institute accredited?
Spertus Institute is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools (NCA), 30 North LaSalle Street, Suite 2400, Chicago, Illinois 60602.

What type of student is enrolled in the MAJPS program?
The program draws professionals from a broad range of Jewish agencies who are interested in studying and learning from great classical and contemporary texts, talented educators, and each other.

How long is the program?
Students can complete the program in approximately two years, three months.

When do classes meet?
Students attend class one night per week, always on the same evening of the week, from 6–9 pm for all of the core courses. There are also workshops and seminars that are scheduled in consultation with students.

Who teaches the MAJPS program?
Our highly credentialed faculty members have extensive experience in their fields of expertise. Spertus Institute employs more than 30 adjunct faculty members, many of whom have taught at Spertus for more than five years. The Spertus MAJPS also has a strong mentoring component that fosters professional development and the integration of coursework and professional work.

What is the class size?
The MAJPS program is run on a cohort basis, offering the opportunity for students from a range of institutional and professional backgrounds to network, learn from one another, and create a vibrant community of practice. Cohorts generally consist of 12-20 students.

How much is the tuition?
The current tuition is $16,500 for the MAJPS program, with fellowships and scholarships available for many students.

Are there other fees?
The cost for textbooks and materials averages $200 per year. Students also are responsible for a graduation fee.

How often do cohorts start?
The MAIPS program admits students to a new cohort each year in the fall, generally in September.

What is the length of each course?
Each course lasts seven weeks. Periodic workshops and seminars are generally three days long.

What are the academic requirements?
A bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university with minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.75 (on a 4.0 scale).

What is the application process?
Prospective students should (1) Submit a completed application, (2) Submit an admissions essay of 500 words, double-spaced and typed, (3) Provide official transcripts from all colleges attended, and (4) Participate in an interview with the admissions committee. Additional steps are required for fellowships and scholarships. No GMAT or GRE required.

How long does the application process take?
Once the application is completed, the student should receive a reply from the MAIPS office within three weeks.

What about parking downtown?
$10–$12 discount parking is available with Spertus validation at Standard Parking at the Essex Inn on 8th Street and Michigan Avenue (2 blocks south of Spertus). Enter on 8th Street between Michigan and Wabash. Some street parking is available after 6 pm. Spertus is also easily accessible by public transportation.
